A.1. Methods

A. Collecting comments

The public comment period for the request for information (RFI) was open from February 17, 2022, through April 18, 2022. Centers for Medicare & Medicaid Services (CMS) used an online survey collection tool created for this RFI and linked to Medicaid.gov.<sup>1,2</sup>

B. Identifying comments for coding

The RFI had a total number of 796 respondents.<sup>3</sup> The RFI asked about respondents' identifying information, including names, organization names, and email addresses. The remainder of the RFI asked respondents to enter comments<sup>4</sup> in free-text fields, each of which corresponded to a question in the RFI. At the end of the RFI, respondents could provide additional comments that did not apply to one of the RFI questions.

C. Coding comments

Before the RFI period, CMS developed themes—relevant concepts or pieces of information—that were assigned to each RFI comment to facilitate the qualitative analysis process. The following are the thematic categories used to code each comment (the detailed categories and specific codes can be found in Appendix A.2.1):

- Response ID and text. Information downloaded from the survey system, such as the unique ID assigned to the comment, the RFI question to which the comment was responding, and the comment text.
- Comment characteristics. Information downloaded from the survey system on the identifying characteristics of the respondent.
- General/overarching themes. Themes used to code comments that do not fall under other thematic categories or when comments related to more than one RFI question.
- Question-specific themes. Unique sets of themes customized to each RFI question.
- General or residual themes. Themes that are not specific to an RFI question and were used to capture certain comment characteristics, such as whether the comment was in a language other than English or whose meaning was difficult to discern.
- Supplemental information. Themes with additional information about each comment, such as whether it was translated to English from another language, and details about each hyperlink.

To code comments by theme, CMS created an Excel workbook with columns for each theme and code and assigned comments to 14 analysts for coding. Coders received training on the themes and coding approach. Analysts read all comments and scored them manually. Coding team members communicated with one another regularly to ensure consistent application of coding rules, and quality assurance reviewers conducted coding reviews several times during coding process. Although these quality assurance reviews helped ensure consistency and accuracy, this analysis is subject to biases and inaccuracies due to the manual and subjective nature of qualitative analysis.

D. Coding comments with hyperlinks

Although respondents could not include attachments to supplement (or in lieu of) free-text comments, they could provide hyperlinks to supporting information; 524 comments included supporting links. CMS reviewed each link for security purposes. Once a hyperlink was determined secure, CMS opened it and included a high-level description of the link (for example, the title of a journal article or web page) in the supplemental information themes.

E. Coding comments in languages other than English

CMS translated into English any comments coded as being in a language other than English, and coded the English-language translations.

F. Coding testimonials

CMS flagged comments that included a testimonial—a description of personal experience with Medicaid or CHIP programs, services, or benefits—and conducted an expedited review to identify people enrolled in Medicaid or those who needed help enrolling in Medicaid or CHIP, obtaining services, or maintaining their eligibility.

G. Excluded and included comments

CMS excluded comments and respondents from the analysis if they were coded as being unclear (that is, the meaning of the comment was difficult to discern), if the RFI survey was submitted with blank responses or populated with nonsensical information (for example, populated only with nonalphanumeric characters), or if the respondent was providing only testimonial<sup>5</sup> feedback rather than answering the RFI question. From the 7,125 comments considered for coding, a total of 1,975 comments were excluded from the analysis: 1,515 comments were unclear, 189 comments submitted with blank information, and 271 comments included testimonial-only feedback. A total of 5,150 comments were included in the analysis.

<sup>5</sup> Testimonial —a description of personal experience with Medicaid or CHIP programs, services, or benefits. Testimonial comments that represented only testimonial feedback or requests for assistance without policy recommendations were excluded from the analysis and re-routed for support from CMS if they included a request for assistance.

<sup>a</sup> Testimonial = A description of personal experience with Medicaid or CHIP programs, services, or benefits. Testimonial comments that represented only testimonial feedback or requests for assistance without policy recommendations were excluded from the analysis and re-routed for support from CMS if they included a request for assistance.
